5 GOOD REASONS

Why Your Employer Should Reward You for Publishing Your Work in JALA and JBS:

1. It increases and enhances a company’s competitive profile, and establishes an employer as a successful and innovative industry leader.

2. It suggests good corporate citizenship and a commitment to the advancement of the scientific community as a whole.

3. It demonstrates employee pride in an employer and an employer’s work.

4. It illustrates an employer’s commitment to continuing education and professional development.

5. It attracts energetic new talent and renews interest among new and existing customers.

Share your achievements with the laboratory science and technology community by publishing the Journal of Biomolecular Screening (JBS) and the Journal of Laboratory Automation (JALA). Scientific manuscripts are accepted on an ongoing basis from SLAS members and nonmembers.

For more information, visit www.slas.org/publications/scientific-journals