Visualization plays an important role in the analysis and presentation of scientific work. In journal articles, images often communicate ideas and information in ways that text, tables, charts, graphs or equations cannot. Sometimes scientific images surpass this purpose and create shapes, patterns and designs that capture attention and imagination. These are the images SLAS Discovery and SLAS Technology seek for the 2017 Art of Science Contest.

Here's How:

E-mail a high-resolution jpg file (300+ dpi/10MB maximum size) of your favorite cell structures, assay results or other lab creations to nhallock@slas.org.
